

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is expected to increase from 1.1 billion to 1.5 billion, and the number of people aged 65 and over is expected to increase from 250 million to 450 million.

As the world's population grows, the demand for food and other resources will increase. The world's population is expected to reach 6 billion by the year 2000, and to reach 9 billion by the year 2050. The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050.

The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050. The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050.

The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050. The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050.

The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050. The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050.

The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050. The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050.

The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050. The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050.

The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050. The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050.

The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050. The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050.

The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050. The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050.

The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050. The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050.

The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050. The world's population is expected to be 50% female by the year 2000, and to be 60% female by the year 2050.

